Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-6 and 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by WO 96/00198.

WO 96/00198 teaches in appended claim 1 a biosensor comprising a nanocrystalline metal oxide semiconductor film surface and at least one protein immobilized on a portion of the film. Page 1 lines 1-3 teach use of the claimed titanium dioxide. In claim 2 zinc and zirconium oxides are taught as being the source of the metal oxide. The claimed phrase "without the use of non-physiological temperature" has been read meaning physiological temperatures are used. However, the Office maintains the method of intended use of the claimed device (e.g. the claimed physiological temperature) is of no patentable moment with respect to the pending device claims. Furthermore, Applicants have provided a 6/13/03 affidavit by Anthony Edward George Cass stating the experimental conditions of WO 96/00198 would result in approximately 8% of the proteins being active. The Office maintains approximately 8% activity is properly read on the instant claims.

Claims 1-3,5-7 and 9-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Ewart et al.

Ewart et al. teach a phosphorescence biosensor comprising a nanocrystalline metal oxide semiconductor film upon which proteins are immobilized. Column 5 lines 18+ teach zinc oxide and titanium dioxide nanoparticles. Column 4 lines 28+ teach multiple analytes and have been read on the claimed different proteins bound to different portions of the array. Column 17 teaches specific aspects of the optical waveguide. Column 6 lines 28+ teach room temperature, which has been read on the claimed "without the use of non-physiological temperature".

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
